JOURNEY LEADER: DANIEL BENSON

Visit the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Angra do Heroísmo

Sprinkled across the Mid-Atlantic, the nine islands of the Azores stand as a testament to a rich past, where quaint villages and lush farms blend seamlessly with modern life. Discovered in the 15th century, these islands quickly became vital stopovers for treasure-laden ships sailing from the Americas.

Today, as an autonomous region of Portugal, the Azores epitomize natural splendour. Volcanic peaks, charming homesteads, and fishing hamlets dot the landscape, offering an escape into unspoiled nature. Our journey through São Miguel, Terceira, Faial, and Pico reveals the unique spirit of each island. We will wander through colourful harbourside plazas, cross rolling pastures, and gaze from belvederes into luminous crater lakes. Over the course of ten days, you'll discover why these islands captivate travellers in search of something truly unique.

TERCEIRA ISLAND
Terceira, whose name means "Third" in Portuguese, was the third island discovered and is the third largest. Upon arrival, we'll meet our local guide and proceed to Angra do Heroísmo, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. This historic city, with its harbour sheltered by volcanic cliffs, served as a key hub for transatlantic trade from the 16th to 18th centuries. Our touring includes the Palace of the Captains General, the Public Gardens, and the Convent of São Gonçalo, the oldest in the city and renowned for its collection of 18th-century Portuguese tiles. We will also visit the Cathedral of Angra do Heroísmo, which features an Indo-Portuguese lectern, intricate silverwork, and a 16th-century wooden painting. The day concludes with a welcome dinner at the hotel. Palacio Santa Catarina (3 nights) D

Stop in São Sebastião to see the historic parish church's frescoes and an Império nearby—these small, bright chapels have hosted Holy Ghost festivals since medieval times. Enjoy lunch at a local restaurant before heading to Praia da Vitória for a short stroll. Then drive through Serra do Cume, taking in panoramic views of Lajes and the ocean, before arriving in the wine region of Biscoitos to visit a wine museum. BLD
