Frederiksborg Castle, housing Denmark's Museum of National History since 1878.

Join us during the serene days of early autumn to discover the heart of Scandinavia, a region where vibrant modern life is deeply rooted in maritime tradition. This journey takes us from the archipelago city of Stockholm, built across 14 islands where Lake Mälaren meets the Baltic Sea, to the historic shores of Denmark, the seat of Europe's oldest continuous monarchy. We will experience the distinct cultures of three nations, finding beauty in the cobblestone lanes of preserved medieval towns and the grand halls of Renaissance palaces. Traversing these lands by private coach, scenic train, and overnight ferry, we venture beyond the cities to connect with the untamed landscapes that define the Nordic spirit, witnessing the sheer scale of the deep glacial fjords and rugged mountains that have shaped Norwegian life for millennia.
